Stainless Steel Hideaway Cutting Board is Newest Feature Available with Frigo Design's Stainless Steel Countertops

(Brewerton, NY – October 2004) –

Convenience, practicality and style all come together in the Frigo Design new Stainless Steel Hideaway Cutting Board, an innovative, functional enhancement to its Custom Stainless Steel Countertops.

Frigo Design, a nationally recognized manufacturer of custom-built metal countertops and home decoratives, is proud to introduce the Stainless Steel Hideaway Cutting Board – the perfect accompaniment for the stainless steel countertop. The unique Cutting Board, which slides in and out of the countertop, is especially ideal for those homeowners, apartment dwellers and condo residents who simply need more counter space and have limited room in their kitchens.

"Like no other cutting board, this all Stainless Steel portable cutting board – stored within the metal countertop – is affordable, aesthetically appealing and offers you the most antibacterial surface for preparing food." said Alan Isaacs, Frigo Design's Vice President of Marketing and Sales.

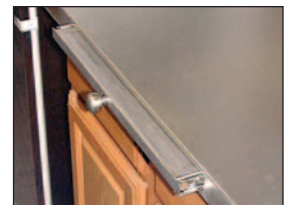

"This cutting board will create a distinct look to the kitchen with the brilliance of stainless steel. More and more people are bringing the lasting quality and upscale look of stainless steel into their kitchens because it is both aesthetic and antiseptic, and the only solution to a purely hygienic surface for food preparation."

Constructed from top quality, heavy duty 20-gauge, stainless steel, the board is integrated into the substrate of the countertop and does not increase the overall thickness of the countertop, thereby allowing it to be easily mounted on top of the cabinetry. Heavy duty stainless slides are used to support the board. An attractive stainless steel knob is affixed to front.

The distinctive and stylish Stainless Steel Board measures 18" x 18", providing an ample sized surface for every cooking need. It is constructed with finished edges and a "no-drip" top edge designed to help reduce spilling. The cutting board also features a formed front edge that hangs over your countertop edge preventing the board from slipping and moving when in use.

"The large cutting surface allows plenty of space for cutting, rolling dough, and other food preparation activities," said Isaacs. "In addition, this durable board can also be used as a staging place for hot skillet and pots, helping to protect the countertop. And, the surface is easy to clean, as well as being heat and stain resistant. If scratches appear, homeowners can just create their own patina with any type of scotch brite pad."

When adding finishing touches to upscale kitchens, architects, interior designers and homeowners have been choosing stainless steel countertops and accessories that are not only aesthetically appealing, but highly practical.
