HAND WOVEN COPPER WITH SEARED PATINA MAKES HUGE "SPLASH" WITH DESIGNERS!

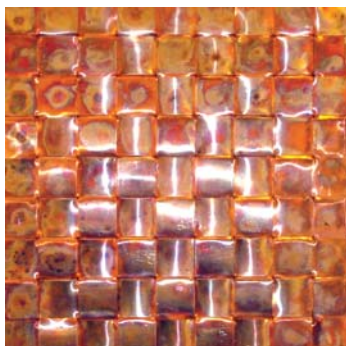

Brewerton, NY – The reviews are in... and the opinions are unanimous: Frigo Design's new Hand Woven Seared Patina Copper Backsplash is a major hit with interior designers and homeowners.

"Everyone is marveling at the dazzling beauty of our new woven copper," said Alan Isaacs, Vice President of Marketing and Sales for Frigo Design. "We've combined a hand woven technique with a unique high-heat burn process to design the most eye-catching, distinctive line of Real Copper backsplashes. It's all hand crafted – just like weaving a pot-holder."

To create the striking backsplash, 1 1/2 inch slats are precision cut from real copper and hand-woven into a "checkerboard" appearance. Once the weaving process is completed, all the edges are hand rolled, producing a durable finished edge look. The final manufacturing stage involves the hand application of a controlled sear/burn process that alters the finish of the copper, producing random colors, light and dark hues, and "rainbow-like" effects.

"This incomparable patina, coupled with the woven texture, allows the cook top backsplash to be integrated into a wide variety of kitchen designs," added Isaacs. "It has an appeal that is perfect for a rich, traditional décor, as well as emitting an 'Old World' charm. At the same time, the gleaming metal ideally complements a modern, urban chic atmosphere."

Custom built to any size or shape backsplash. Frigo is also making available woven, seared copper in Universal cook top splashes, available in a variety of sizes to fit standard cook tops, with widths of 30, 36, 48, 54, 50 inches and a standard height of 30 inches. They can be easily affixed to any wall.

Unique Seared Patina Now Available in Frigo Design's Collection of Copper Wall & Floor Tiles

Frigo Design has just added Seared Patina Copper Tiles to its impressive collection of real metal wall and floor tiles, including its innovative styled Subway Tiles. "Because of the overwhelming response to the Hand Woven Seared Patina Copper Backsplash, we decided to enhance our real metal tile selection with the incomparable seared patina copper tile," explained Isaacs.

Frigo Design utilizes the same controlled high-heat/burn process on the real copper tiles to create this one-of-a-kind, strikingly beautiful look. "This is really an eye-catching look that can be easily integrated into a wide variety of kitchen designs... from a rich, "aged" traditional setting to a sophisticated upscale décor." Isaacs added.

Like all other Frigo Design tiles, the seared patina copper tiles are mounted on a 1/4" water resistant, non-combustible fiber-cemented backer/filler. They bond securely to any surface with mastic or latex thinset, and are designed for a grouted or non-grouted installation.

These multi-hued tiles – as well as all the tiles in Frigo Design's metal tile collection – are available individually, or can be obtained pre-mounted and grouted for easy-to-install wall and floor applications.
